

CHURCH-GOING.
A lady returning from church on Sunday, was run over by a double team, and severely, though not dangerously, injured. We have for some time been impressed with the necessity of a reform in this respect. It is a common custom with not few drivers to make Sunday the occasion to display their dexterity with the whip, and show off their teams, at the imminent hazard of life and limb to hundreds of women and children, who at this season of the year are compelled to keep the middle of the road. The impropriety of this is too manifest to need urging. It is, we are persuaded, sufficient to state the fact and call the attention of people to the subject. We hold that, under ordinary circumstances, pedestrians are entitled to the middle of the road, on Sundays, during the winter, or at least to one half of it, and that it is the especial duty of persons with teams to be on the look out, and to turn out, without waiting to ascertain how near they may drive to a lady before she will take the alternative of wading a snow drift or being run over. Let this ground be taken, and insisted upon; and if the perceptions of some should prove too obtuse for the dictates of common decency, let those persons capable of bearing bludgeons convince these Jesus that "the race is not to the swift." For one, we never mean to be run over, if we can help it, nor have our better half turn out of the path to accommodate a neighbor's horse.

ANOTHER FIRE.—A fire broke out between two and three o'clock yesterday morning, in the Brewery in this village, owned and occupied by E. N. FLACK, Esq., which in a short time was entirely consumed, together with a large building adjoining, belonging to the same establishment. The engines were promptly on the ground, and rendered essential service in preventing several buildings adjacent. There is no doubt that this fire was the work of an incendiary, as we understand some persons in this town have been made to fire the same premises within the last fortnight. This is the fourth successful act of incendiarism which has occurred in this village within a year, and which has resulted in a large destruction of property. Can no means be devised to prevent out the incendiaries?

We learn that there was an insurance of $4,500 on the buildings and stock, $3,000 in the Mutual, and $1,500 in the Acacia Company. Sentinel of Monday.
We do not concur in the opinion that this was the work of an incendiary. There is not, that we are aware, any sufficient evidence for such a belief, and in the absence of any assignable motive, we must decline believing that there exists in this community a wretch so utterly depraved as to use the torch from mere wantonness. Nor do we believe that any other of our late numerous fires, with the exception of the Catholic Church were the work of an incendiary. No one could expect to avail himself of plunder from a stable, a brewery, or a blackmill, and we are not aware of any attempt to plunder in other parts of the town, at or near the time of these conflagrations. And most certainly the amount of property destroyed, when compared with the insurance, precludes the possibility of foul play. The Catholic Church was doubtless set on fire, and for reasons which are obvious to all acquainted with the circumstances. But this was altogether a domestic affair, not calculated to produce retaliation, and has been submitted to, by those interested with a degree of Christian resignation bordering on gratitude! It is therefore unjust to indulge any suspicions on this score. No, we believe that all that can be said about it is, that we have heretofore been very fortunate, but are somewhat severely afflicted just at present.

We would direct the particular attention of our readers in this town to the following extract from the act incorporating our Fire Company. It will be observed that the power of the Wardens is ample. Will they exercise it, and enforce the penalty upon such as go to see fires, but refuse to assist? An example or two would set this matter right, and entitle the Wardens to the everlasting gratitude of the public.

And they are hereby empowered in times of fire to demand and require assistance of the inhabitants of said town, and others, who may then be in said town, to extinguish and prevent the spreading of such fire, and to remove goods and effects out of any house, store, or other place endangered by said fire; and the majority of said fire wardens, who may be present are hereby empowered to cause to be pulled down or removed such house or other building as they may think necessary for the purpose of preventing the spreading and progress of said fire, and the said wardens are hereby empowered to require and demand assistance from any of the inhabitants of said town to pull down any house or building, provided it shall be judged necessary by a majority of the fire wardens then present, for the purpose of preventing the spreading and progress of said fire; and they are hereby empowered to quell with force all tumults and disorders, and direct the labor of all persons present during the continuance of said fire; and all persons are hereby commanded to yield obedience to such orders, and if any person shall refuse or neglect to obey the order of any fire wardens or any other person in time of fire, in any manner authorized by this act, such offender shall on conviction thereof, before any justice of the peace for the County of Chittenden, forfeit and pay a fine not exceeding seven dollars, to the Treasurer of the Fire Company aforesaid.

One day in my Shop.
"ARE my Boots done?" said a genteel looking young man as he entered my shop with a cane in his hand and a chain about his neck, which he made no effort to conceal. "What is the name sir, said I? 'My name is —' 'Yes sir,' handing him a pair that would be pronounced exquisite by any of the species in Broadway. 'I will call and pay you for them tomorrow,' said he, 'I like them much and will tell my friends where to call if they want a superb article in your line. Seeing me hesitate, he added, 'I forgot my purse when I left home. I have not forgot to make your Boots,' said I, 'I think the best way to make you remember to pay me for them is to keep them till you do so.'
"Are my shoes done?" said a smart young girl, (I always remember the ladies names). 'Yes, Miss,' handing them to her. 'What is the price?' 'One dollar and fifty cents,' 'Here is an order from Mr. — for them,' 'I am very sorry to make you trouble,' said I, 'but I cannot take the order in payment.' 'Why sir, is it not good?' 'Yes, undoubtedly Mr. — is good for three times the amount of all the shoes I have in my shop, but I cannot use that order in my business, those shoes are money to me, and if I take the order in payment it makes the order cash to Mr. —, that is, Mr. — puts one dollar and fifty cents of my money into his own pocket, which he undoubtedly will pay when it is convenient, but in the meantime it is entirely useless to me.'
"Do you make gaiter Boots?" said a lady. 'Yes,' 'Have you any made?' 'I have some that I have made for measures,' (handing her a pair). 'Those are nice ones,' said she, 'and I think they will fit me, I will try them. I have no objection to your trying them, but should they fit you, I would not run the risk of disappointing the lady they are made for, for the price of them. 'You are right,' said she, 'you may take my measure for a pair.'
"Have you any Boots ready made that will fit me?" said a gentleman. 'I believe I have sir, for I keep a good assortment on hand.' The gentleman selected a pair which he said fitted him better than he was ever before fitted, and required the price. 'Five dollars sir,' 'Why,' said he, (handing me the money). 'I expected they would be more. I have not seen a better pair in the place, and they all asked more for them.' 'I never require what others sell their work for. I do not do a credit business and therefore do not charge one man for what another runs away with.' 'You may depend upon my patronage,' said the gentleman, handing me his card. 'Thank you sir, I will endeavor to deserve it by having your work well done and done when you want it.'
Ladies and gentlemen, the subscriber solicits your patronage, and will be in his late procured goods and ready to your commands, and will omit no effort to furnish you a good article in his line, and cheap for ready pay. Shop, corner of Church and Cherry streets.

PROSPECTUS
OF THE SECOND & THIRD VOLUMES OF HIS REE'S NEW MONTHLY MAGAZINE OF EUROPEAN POLITICAL LITERATURE.
THIS Periodical will commence a new volume on the first of the ensuing month (January 1839), and will thereafter regularly appear monthly. This Magazine, hitherto, has been acknowledged one of the Cheapest of the kind; yet the Proprietors have made arrangements to ENLARGE its pages, so that each number will contain 200 ORDINARY OCTAVO PAGES, reading matter; thus comprising during the year, in two volumes, 2400 pages of the best articles to be found in the latest European Magazines and Annuals, together with Embellishments, for the trifling sum of $3 A Year! This would be impracticable, were the Proprietors not in possession of unusual facilities, by which they will be enabled faithfully to fulfill their engagements.
"Lecture and money," says an eminent man, "bestowed upon instructive and entertaining periodical reading, can never be abused or misapplied. Its good effects are not confined to present intellectual enjoyment; they pervade the future with an influence salutary and powerful."
The New Monthly will continue to give the cream of the European Periodicals and Annuals, interspersing tales of elegant fancy and interest, with moral essays, instructive literary criticisms, eloquent articles of science, and beautiful poetry. The selections are made with a view to elevate the standard of taste and morals, and every exertion will be put in requisition to add to the literary attractions and usefulness of this work.
The business of this Magazine must necessarily be conducted on the CASH SYSTEM, as the Proprietors do not require of their paying subscribers a bonus of 25 per cent, to make up for losses occasioned by delinquents. Payment, therefore, must invariably be made in advance.
TERMS.—Three Dollars a year, in advance; or one dollar quarterly five cents, for six months. Half yearly or quarterly payments in advance will be received, if without expense to the Proprietors.
Any person who will procure five yearly subscribers, and remit the money to the Proprietors, will be entitled to a copy.
Clerks remaining $25, will be entitled to 10 copies for one year.
For Masters throughout the United States and Canada are requested to act as Agents for the NEW MONTHLY, and receive the customary commission.
This work will be printed on sheets so large that the postage on each number will be only four and a half cents for 100 miles, and seven and a half cents over that distance.
All communications, Post Paid, should be addressed to
